

The last thing that America needs is more media consolidation. Further deregulation of the media threatens the foundations of this democracy. Michael Powell's insistence on removing media ownership constraints is at best gravely irresponsible.